Savannah, Ga., February 7.—(Special.)—Far out on Savannah bay, through the murky haze of mist, a smudge of gray smoke dimly rose above the horizon. Aboard the U. S. S. Yamacraw, government cutter, eyes strained through glasses and eager vision tried to lift the veil of visibility higher. Captain van Borskirk, United States navy, lowered his glasses suddenly. "It's the transport," he said, and from that moment on until the ship docked at 3:30 p. m., "from a hundred thousand hearts packed on tugs, motor boats, launches, docks, waterfront, and warehouse roofs, joyous greetings went out to meet the great army transport 'St. Mihiel,' bringing the last thousand American troops home from their long watch on the Rhine. On board the Yamacraw the official welcoming committee, including Governor Hardwick, Major General Farnsworth, United States army, chief of infantry; Major General David C. Shanks, United States army, commander fourth corps area; a congressional committee from Washington and others waited, cold, forgotten, as the great ship hove to outside the quarantine station.

The tug McCauley commanded by Captain Frank Spencer, with scores of newspaper men and photographers had followed us down the bay and at quarantine they went aboard the St. Mihiel. Then the tug transferred our party from the Yamacraw and as the veterans of the army of occupation stood at attention the welcoming committee followed the eager newsmen onto the big ship.

FIVE ARE INJURED
BY AUTOMOBILES

Ambulances Figure in
Two Accidents—One
Boy Gets Broken Arm
While Cranking Car.

Five persons were injured in automobile accidents Wednesday, ambulances making emergency calls figuring in two of the mishaps.

Those injured were Fred Roberts, 185-A Cooper street; Fred Parr, 8-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Fred Parr, 114 Sampson street; J. D. Mode, 167 Kennedy street, and two negro boys, C. H. Harvey and Adelle Urey.

Parr was hurt when struck by an automobile on Highland avenue, the machine being operated by Miss Annette Hamilton, of 905 East Lake drive. Miss Hamilton picked up the boy and rushed him to the Grady hospital in her car, later reporting the accident to the police. She claims the boy was immediately in front of her car as he alighted from the rear of a water wagon he had been riding.

Mode, one of those injured in an accident in which an ambulance figured, was hurt under peculiar circumstances. He was riding his machine north on Bellwood avenue and the Grady ambulance, in charge of Driver Frank Trammell, was passing him on the left, going in the same direction.

As the ambulance was passing him, Miss is said to have turned his motorcycle directly into the side of the car. The motorcycle was badly smashed and wrecked, but Mode escaped with a few scratches and bruises.

The other ambulance figuring in an accident was that of Awtry & Lowrey, he other negro boy, hurt, was struck by a motor truck on North avenue. He is believed to have suffered a fracture of the skull. The truck was operated by J. V. Wallace, 34, of 224 Bellwood avenue, whom police are holding under a $2,000 bond, charged with reckless driving.

ARMISTEAD CALLS

Council Committee Meets
Friday to Provide Places

Reorganization of the police department so as to provide places for members of the detective department, abolished by council at Monday's session, and discussion of other matters relating to the police situation, will be the object of a special meeting scheduled for Friday night by the police committee, according to Chairman Jesse W. Armistead, Tuesday night.

Chairman Armistead, who was erroneously reported to be absent from the city on business pertaining to the police department, stated Tuesday that he would call a special meeting after Mayor Sims had affixed his signature to the ordinance, making it effective. The mayor, who will leave Friday on a short vacation trip to Florida, in company with Fire Chief W. B. Cody, announced that he would sign the ordinance before his departure.

Chairman Armistead refused to comment on the plans of the committee with regard to ousting Police Chief Beavers. He stated that the committee was proceeding with this matter in a careful way and would probably take action within the next few days.

Six Automobile Loads of

County Believed to Have Reached Atlanta.

With Roy Wingo, Forsyth county youth, reposing in Cumming jail and a warrant out for Louis Westbrook, also of Forsyth county, authorities Wednesday night believed a net was fast closing around a band of a dozen whisky blockade runners who early Wednesday morning abducted L. C. Thacker, bailiff of the Hightower district of Forsyth county, and Tillman Haygood, farmer, and brought them in whisky-freighted automobiles to Sandy Creek, on the Roswell road, where the two were dumped out and warned "to forget what had happened and keep their mouths shut."

The stories told by Bailiff Thacker to Atlanta police when he reached Atlanta Wednesday morning and by Louis Harris, a third member of the blockade runners and returned to Cumming to give the alarm, are substantially as follows:

Met Dark Automobile.
Thacker, Haygood and Harris were driving along the Alpharetta-Atlanta road before dawn Wednesday morning, returning from an ineffectual effort of Thacker to serve a warrant with the assistance of the other two, who are farmers in the Hightower district of Forsyth. Harris drove the car.

A few miles from Cumming they were met by an automobile, running without lights. It slowed down, they took it, they said, for the machine of prohibition enforcement agents and stopped to converse with them. Hardly had they left Harris' car when they were seized by the occupants of the other car, disarmed and held helpless. In a moment five other automobiles drove up. They all proved to be units of a huge caravan of whisky blockade runners who had been to Dawson county for supplies and were returning to Atlanta.

Harris Makes Escape.
The three Forsyth men were ordered into one of the machines. Harris suddenly broke away from the men who were holding him and fled into the woods, followed by a fusillade of bullets, none of which struck him.

The blockade runners drove away, threatening to drown the bailiff and his companions when they reached Cumming.

DEBT AGREEMENT REACHES CONGRESS

Harding Urges Passage of Measure—Also Pleads
for Early Vote on Ship Subsidy.

BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS.
Washington, February 7.—Congressional approval of the war debt funding agreement negotiated with Great Britain was requested by President Harding today as a "recommitment of the English-speaking world to the validity of contract."

Coupled with this approval, the president added in an address at a joint session of the senate and house, congress should enact into law the administration ship bill because "it is as important to avoid losses as it is to secure funds on debts."

Ample time for action on both of these measures, it was declared by Mr. Harding, remains before the present congress goes out of existence on March 4, and either, he said, was fit to be recorded as a chapter of great achievement.

Immediately afterward bills to give that approval were introduced in both senate and house and the leaders prepared to bring them to passage without delay.

The senate manager indicated that a previous plan to put the administration ship bill ahead of the funding legislation at that end of the capitol might be abandoned despite a renewal by the president of his plea for action on the ship measure before March 4.

Leaves Course Open.
The president made no specific recommendation as to the form the action of congress on the British debt should take, leaving it to the leaders in congress to decide what method should be adopted to amend the present law so as to permit consummation of the agreement recently reached by the American and British debt commissions.

"It was manifest from the beginning," he said, "that Great Britain could not undertake any program of payment which would conform to the limitations of time and interest rates which the commission had been authorized to grant. But here was a great nation acknowledging its obligations and seeking terms in which it might repay."

"So your commission proceeded to negotiate in a business way for a fair and just settlement. Your commission went so far as it believed the American sense of fair play would justify."

COTTON'S FUTURE

AMERICAN MEDIATION
NOW SEEN AS REMEDY

Price Asserts Our Economic Interests, as Well as Duty to Humanity,
Involved in Situation.

While the present statistical position of the cotton market shows undoubted strength, the most important factor to decide its future price rests in the extent of foreign demand, and it is impossible to take the surplus of American production until Europe has been in a measure at least, rehabilitated, according to Theodore H. Price, eminent authority and editor of Commerce and Finance, prominent American financial publication, who was in Atlanta Wednesday.

Mr. Price, who was for many years rated as the world's leading cotton merchant, retired from business several years ago to join the ranks of the editorial room. He is considered the greatest authority on cotton in the world today. His weekly letter from his office in New York is a regular feature of The Constitution's service to its readers.

Speaks at Exchange.
Mr. Price was in Atlanta for several hours Wednesday to address the members of the Atlanta Commercial exchange and the local association of credit men. He left at night for Birmingham, St. Louis, Omaha, and probably to Denver and San Francisco.

The solution of the present European situation, with the armies of France on German soil, is impossible, according to Mr. Price, while these two nations confront each other in a sullen attitude. "Others, like myself, believe," he observed, "that if America should rise to the full appreciation of her opportunity and her moral obligations, she could by peaceful and persuasive methods do more to reestablish the modus vivendi and restore Europe than any other nation."

It is considered unlikely by close observers, according to Mr. Price, that either France or Germany will clash in actual warfare, or that Germany will be enabled to enlist the aid of the Red army of Bolshevik Russia.

Nicely Adjusted Demand.
"At the present time cotton is in a statistical position of undoubted strength," Mr. Price declared.

Luxurious Quarters and Best

Dollars a Month.

BY RALPH T. JONES,
Staff Correspondent.

Savannah, Ga., February 7.—(Special.)—One thousand doughboys, the last detachment of the American army of occupation on the Rhine to reach America, landed at Savannah today off the U. S. army transport, St. Mihiel.

After a few score conversations with many individuals among them, it is hard to decide whether the majority of them would have voted to return to United States soil or not. As they put it, there are reasons why they are glad to return and there are reasons why they would have liked to stay around Coblenz a few months longer.

The reasons why they are glad to be home, every one knows. If you can't exactly put it into words, just feel it in your heart. Imagine how you would feel if you had been living in a foreign country surrounded by foreign ideals, foreign language, and foreign customs for four years. When you came home, of course, you can't put it into words, but you'd feel it and so do they.

Here are a few reasons why an argument for a longer sojourn on German soil is not so foolish after all. In the first place a dollar bill in real money is worth about 10 marks.

M'Lendon Makes
Strong Appeal
FOR SHIP SUBSIDY

Georgia Secretary of State
Critiques Progressive Leaders for Action in Holding Up Bill.

Constitution Bureau.
Raleigh Hotel.

Washington, February 7.—(By Constitution Leased Wire.)—In a speech before the annual convention of the Merchant Marine association, which assembled here Monday, Secretary of State Guy McLeLendon of Georgia, today strongly endorsed the pending ship subsidy bill and criticized progressive leaders in the senate for their action in holding up a vote on the measure.

The speech of the Georgia official came shortly after President Harding had addressed congress along the same lines, urging that some definite action be taken before adjournment in March. In his message on the debt funding commission's report read to a joint session of congress, Mr. Harding declared he was not pleading for the enactment of the bill, but merely for an opportunity of having the issue decided.

Mr. McLeLendon dwelt upon the needs of south Atlantic states in the matter of foreign trade, which he said would be established through the maintenance of a great merchant marine, and made a distinct impression upon the convention.

In part he spoke as follows:
"President Harding, in his message to congress November 21, 1922, informed the country that our fleet of merchant ships had cost three billion dollars and that they were worth only a fraction of that cost."

Cites Competition.
"The president stated that in operating less than one-third of our government-owned ships the people were losing fifty million dollars a year, and that, under the bill then and now pending, this loss would be reduced from fifty million dollars to twenty million." Mr. McLeLendon continued.

"But the president should have gone a little bit further and told congress and the American people the truth, namely, that America cannot operate government owned merchant ships in competition with other nations of the earth that are engaged in overseas transportation."

Mr. McLeLendon outlined the present participation in foreign commerce, showing that out of the 50 per cent of world tonnage handled by the United States, privately owned ships handled approximately 35 per cent while government owned ships handled only 15 per cent.

"Our participation, as the president calls it," Mr. McLeLendon continued, "in the movement of our foreign commerce is 15 per cent of the whole. In handling this 15 per cent, and using one-third of our merchant marine, the people lose out of their pockets $50,000,000 annually. If the American ships privately owned, which carried 35 per cent of our commerce, lost money at the same rate, the corporation owners would stand to lose more than $116,000,000 a year."

Shows Difference.
"The difference between the privately owned ships and the government ships is this," Mr. McLeLendon stated: "In the case of privately owned ships the losses would fall on individual stockholders. In the case of the government owned ships, however, over 116,000,000 American citizens are stockholders, and they never find out what is going on."

"Citizens of Georgia alone have to pay $1,500,000 a year to support this unbusinesslike enterprise, and, while they do not feel the money as it moves out of their pockets, it moves out, nevertheless."

"The record does not disclose the carrying of a single ton of freight in

Constantinople, February 7.—It is understood that the allies have not only refused to withdraw their ships from Smyrna but that the British have sent heavy ships to Smyrna from Constantinople, the Dardanelles and Malta.

The United States destroyer, Edsall, is at Smyrna, but it is reported that the Turks define her as outside the prohibited class, both in tonnage and as a neutral and it is expected that she will remain there.

ANGLO-FRENCH NOTE WARNS ANGORA.
London, February 7.—After conversations today between the British and French governments it was agreed, in terms proposed by the French, to reject the Turkish demand that the allied warships leave Smyrna.

The allied warships have sent a reply to Angora to that effect and warning the Angora government that the Anglo-French warships have been instructed to defend themselves if attacked.

A Reuter's Constantinople dispatch says that a second note has been received from the Turkish commander at Smyrna reducing the time limit for the allied warships to quit Smyrna from midnight tonight to sunset.

The allied commissioners, after a conference, are declared to have addressed a strong note to the Kemalist representative at Constantinople, warning him that all responsibility for any act of hostility would devolve upon the Kemalist government. "Similar warnings have been issued to local officials at Smyrna."

There are two allied warships at Smyrna—the British cruiser Calypso and the French cruiser Ernest Renan.

Illegal traffic in narcotics was condemned Wednesday night by the members of the grand lodge of the National Pipe Smokers' union, passed a resolution endorsing the crusade now being waged in the United States against the "evil" of the opium.

The action was taken at a meeting at the Aragon hotel, selections by the Howard orchestra and singing and dancing numbers by Miss Mildred Baker followed the business session.

Dr. Horace Grant, national president of the order, presided at the meeting, and received a list of 50 men who applied for membership just prior to adjournment.

Dr. Grant addressing the approximately 200 people at the meeting stated that it was his belief that the gospel of the order would spread from coast to coast.

After introducing officers of the lodge left immediately for the time where a branch order of the national organization was formed.

"That does not excuse you for taking the oranges," the court shouted.

"You see you honah—ah picks up de fruit, and if anybody calls me back to inform me ah made a mistake ah didn't hear 'em," the prisoner said.

"Listen close to this," the judge said, raising his voice to a loud baritone—"$15 fine, and 30 days in jail."

Co-Operative Marketing Salvation of the South, Kentucky Editor Says

Memphis, Tenn., February 7.—Co-operative marketing is the great movement in America today and the salvation of the agricultural industry of the country, declared Judge R. W. Bingham, editor of The Louisville Courier-Journal and chairman of the National Co-operative Marketing council, in an address before the convention of Southern Agricultural workers here tonight.

Co-operative marketing is no longer an experiment, Judge Bingham said, but in 12 years of actual trial in all parts of the country it has not suffered a single failure.

"Agriculture is the basic industry of the country," asserted the speaker. "If the farmer is prosperous, the whole country is prosperous. If the farmer is reasonably prosperous, then the country is safe."

"No longer will the farmer be the victim of 'bunk' handed out to him by every political demagogue for years and years. The time is almost here when a man will be elected not because he wants a job but because he can do a service to his country."

The National Co-operative council represents an actual membership of 800,000 product growers, its chairman said, beside affiliated industries in which 450,000 persons were engaged and nearly 6,000,000 workers in kindred industries.

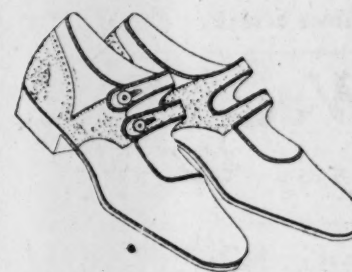

Three principles for the success of any co-operative selling venture he outlined as follows:

"First, the organization must be by commodities and not by localities. Second, the organization must control a sufficient share of the commodity to dominate the market, and third, it must obtain absolutely binding long-term contracts."

The Last Word In Better Coffee Making IS TRICOLATION

Easy—Simple—To Make

A snowy white paper of fibre silk is placed in the bottom of the Tricolator. Ground coffee to suit taste is spread upon it, which is held in place by water spreader. Then boiling water is poured in. Only takes just a few minutes for proper tricolation.

Has Ten Distinct Points of Advantage

1. CORRECT BREWING.—The method of brewing coffee in the Tricolator is scientifically correct. The water is boiled and not the coffee.

2. FILTRATION.—When finely ground coffee is placed on top of the inexpensive fibre silk filter used in the Tricolator a perfect filtration bed for coffee is prepared. Boiling water poured into this ideal filter stays in contact with the ground coffee just the right length of time to extract the full flavor and aroma.

3. FAT FREE COFFEE.—The fibre silk filter which cannot be used a second time performs another invaluable service which no other coffee-making plan has achieved. This service is to hold back with the grounds those gummy, insoluble fats which detract from coffee flavor and tend to make the coffee sour through after-fermentation.

4. LESS TANNIC ACID.—Tricolation is sufficiently severe to extract all there is of goodness in the coffee by water just boiled passing through the ground coffee once.

5. SIMPLICITY.—Tricolation is the simplest method of coffee-making that has ever been devised. There is no watching, waiting, boiling or thinning; absolutely no experience is required to make marvelous coffee in a Tricolator.

6. FLAVOR.—The Tricolator discovered and developed an unusually rich flavor in coffee because the undesirable elements are held back.

7. QUICKLY MADE.—Contrary to the general opinion, finished coffee is more quickly made in a Tricolator than by any other method.

8. ECONOMY.—When you make coffee in a Tricolator, you waste nothing that is of value. Tricolation gives you a maximum strength without bitterness or other objections, takes proper color of cream and taste of sugar quicker than coffee not tricolated.

9. KEEPING QUALITY.—Coffee as it comes from the Tricolator is as sweet and pure and appetizing as coffee can be. Kept in the Coffee Server, with which the Tricolator is equipped, coffee will stay in this sweet condition for an unusually long time.

10. AROMA.—The appetizing aroma of coffee made in a Tricolator is distinctly different and superior to coffee made by any other process because the aroma giving volatile substance is extracted below boiling temperature and the fibre filter prevents insoluble fats from getting into the brew.

A simplified, scientific method for better coffee making. A wonderful discovery, now patented in every coffee-drinking country of the world.

Athens, Ga., February 7.—(Special.)—"Uncle Albert," aged janitor familiarly known to every student and alumnus of the University of Georgia within the past fifty years, and who has been ill at his home for the past few weeks, has just written a note of thanks to his friends in which he says he thinks of his students and "fessors" all of the time and "thanks the Lord for what they have done for him." "Uncle Albert" is advanced in years, but his mind is still alert and many students call on him and cheer his hours with talk.

HEALTH OFFICER HELD UNDER DRUG CHARGES

Augusta Physician Alleged to Have Received Much Morphine Unlawfully.

Augusta, Ga., February 7.—(Special.)—Dr. Kilpatrick Cross, assistant to the public health officer for Richmond county, was arrested here tonight by federal and city authorities charged with violating the Harrison narcotic act and of violating a section of the postal law.

Dr. Kilpatrick is originally from Lawrence, Fla., but has been located here for the past several months as assistant health officer. He has been working in the county making a survey of the county schools.

It is alleged that he received, while at the hospital, 1,000 one-quarter grain capsules of morphine and four drams of morphine sulphate. It was first addressed to his home in Florida but later sent here and was discovered by one of the doctors at the hospital.

Dr. Cross is in the Richmond county jail under a bond of $2,500.

COTTON MILL OWNERS OPENING DIXIE UNITS

Atlanta Builders and Engineers Employed on Big North Carolina Contract.

Announcement yesterday that the building contract for the transfer of a large unit of the manufacturing plant of the Jenkins Spinning company, of Pawtucket, R. I., from that city to Gastonia, N. C., had been let to the Atherthaw Construction company, of Atlanta and Boston, presages a movement of considerable moment toward the south, according to L. W. (Chip) Robert, whose office, Robert & Co., Inc., are engineers for the Jenkins company's new southern plant.

The Jenkins Spinning company is the first actually to let contracts for the movements of units to the south. Some of them are now surveying this territory for suitable locations. More favorable labor conditions and better conditions generally to be found in the south, together with the nearness of this section to the raw cotton market, better freight conditions and milder climate are all factors which are operating to make this talk of move a matter of actual fact.

A great many of these companies have selected North and South Carolina for the location of their mills, primarily on account of the activity of interests and communities in these states who are on the job and who are selling the idea of locations there rather than further south. There is no reason for Georgia not getting its share of this new development, and now is certainly the psychological moment for communities interested to bestir themselves unless they are to see other sections profit by the movement to the exclusion of Georgia.

According to Mr. Robert there is intense interest throughout Texas in proposed new developments in that state, and a determined and organized effort has been made by citizens of that state to develop the cotton manufacturing industry there. Already Texas interests have succeeded in interesting some of the large cotton mill operators in the advantages offered by that state, he declared.

Unexplained Fire Seriously Burns Man in Open Air

Lithonian Is Attacked by Flames on Driveway of Venable Estate.

Stone Mountain, Ga., February 7.—(Special.)—Flames that enveloped him mysteriously as he was walking down the driveway of the Sam H. Venable estate in the open air this morning, seriously burned Charles A. Rankin, of Lithonia, who has been visiting relatives here.

Rankin has been suffering from an ailment for which he is being treated by an Atlanta specialist and the burns caused so serious a nervous collapse that he has been unable to give an account of how the flames originated.

Ernest Mathews, negro, was the first to see the plight of Rankin. He rushed to help and burned his hands painfully in beating out the flames that were consuming the white man's clothing. His shouts for assistance brought others to the scene, but the unexplained mishap occurred while Rankin was returning home from an early morning walk he has been taking regularly for his health.

DECATUR MEETING TO CONSIDER TAX AND BOND ISSUE

Decatur, Ga., February 7.—(Special.)—The board of city commissioners has called a mass meeting of citizens of Decatur for Thursday at 8 o'clock at the courthouse to discuss the proposed bond issue and the question of raising the tax rate from $1.50 to $1.75 to care for the city debt.

A new bond issue will also be proposed including $100,000 for the creation of a new grammar school and other improvements of the school system and $60,000 for water works improvements. Walker White will present the 1923 budget to the meeting.

ROME CHAMBER WILL REORGANIZE ON BROADER PLAN

Rome, Ga., February 7.—(Special.)—At a luncheon held here this afternoon by members of leading citizens including officers and directors of the Rome Chamber of Commerce, it was decided to accept the reorganization plan recently prepared by a committee of the chamber and go to work at once to secure funds necessary to put the plan into effect.

The plan proposes that a social club, where business men may entertain visitors in a portion of the building which is to house the chamber; an industrial board, which will offer inducements to manufacturing plants and other business enterprises to locate in Rome; and the usual chamber of commerce with a permanent full-time secretary. In order to finance the plan there would be needed altogether about $30,000.

The plan proposes that a temporary fund for maintaining the organization be created by the enrollment of 40 men who will pay $10 a month for six months; that 300 members be enrolled on an individual basis of $40 a year; that a club house be established; that an industrial bureau be established with an annual working fund of $20,000.

COSTS $4.02 TO FEED DECATUR CONVICT FOR ONE MONTH

Bainbridge, Ga., February 7.—(Special.)—It costs Decatur county $4.02 to feed one of its convicts for a month while a mule's board bill averages $18.05 a month. It is shown in the January statement submitted the first meeting of the new board of county commissioners by Warden S. M. Weeks and bookkeeper A. H. Stewart. State prison commission requirements were met in the convicts' bill of fare.

The report, which was approved by J. S. Thomas, new chairman of the board, showed that $6,800 had been saved to the county by the use of convict labor in building dirt fills and approaching the new bridges across Flint river in West Bainbridge.

the Chattahoochee. At Sandy Creek, however, the car in which the prisoners were held slowed down and the two were allowed to jump out after having been given a series of true 43p-the-Blood, Captain Kidd warnings to maintain silence.

Harris ran into Cumming after his escape and advised officials there of the episode. He claims to have recognized Wingo and Westbrook who, officials in Cumming said they thought had been employed by the blockade runners as pilots to guide the contraband caravan through the hilly country.

Wingo was subjected to the severest sort of grilling after his capture Thursday but late Wednesday night had refused to admit that he was in the blockade convoy or to divulge any information concerning it, according to advice over long distance telephone from Cumming. Tucker and Haygood returned to Cumming on the late bus Wednesday night.

COTTON'S FUTURE RESTS ON EUROPE

strength," Mr. Price said. "There is a nicely adjusted balance between demand and supply sufficient to take care of the 1922 crop surplus, leaving only a minimum reserve with which to begin the new year."

"The problem to be solved is that of the future. This resolves itself into three important factors, the first of which is the acreage which American growers will devote to the crop during 1923."

"The second factor is the willingness of the farmers to combat the boll weevil and the extent of their success. But by far the most important factor to be considered in the equation of prices is the foreign demand."

"In the west the market for American cotton in Europe and Japan has reached as high as from 5,000,000 to 8,000,000 bales from most years' crops. But Europe's ability to buy our surplus depends on the restoration of her buying power. That restoration is impossible while France and Germany confront each other in a sudden attitude, the one nation demanding payment with the other being unwilling, and by some thought to be unable, to pay.

"Price is in Doubt."

"Until a way out of this impasse is found, the question of a remunerative price on next year's crop is in doubt, even though the yield be smaller than that now expected by many."

"Actual warfare between Germany and France seems out of the question. Germany has neither the arms nor the organization. The fear that many have expressed, that Germany will invoke the aid of red Russia, seems equally unfounded."

"Those among my acquaintances who are best informed on international economics feel that the imminent unsatisfactory conditions of the present are likely to continue until some method of adjusting them, not now in sight, shall be discovered."

"A few students of the social sciences are commencing to assert that it will be only through a twentieth century Napoleon that Europe can be reorganized."

"Could Restore Peace."

"Others, like myself, believe that if America should rise to a full appreciation of her opportunities and her moral obligations she could, by peaceful and persuasive methods, reestablish world-wide peace."

"Certainly our economic interests, as well as our duty to humanity and humanity, should lead us to ponder carefully our duty in the situation which so vitally concerns not only the southern cotton farmer, but every fiber of our industrial and political life the world over. It is at least worth the effort. We have had enough of whispering gossamer observers who have no authority to speak officially on anything. It is time for us to do some talking straight from the shoulder, and if we would only interest ourselves to that extent we would soon get results and without in the slightest degree involving ourselves in disagreeable or dangerous complications. Until we do that every farmer who grows a bale of cotton is simply sacrificing one-third the value of every bale."

Makes Two Addresses.

Mr. Price spoke at two meetings during the day. At 11:30 o'clock he addressed the Atlanta Commercial exchange on the outlook of cotton and the south, while at 12:30 he addressed the Atlanta Credit Men's association at the chamber of commerce, outlining general credit conditions.

Cotton is the south's eternal problem, and virtually every line of business fluctuates as does cotton," Mr. Price declared. "The south cannot get away from cotton, nor should it."

"The future of cotton depends entirely on what happens in Europe. Some method must be found to settle the international question, or else business everywhere will suffer terribly."

"I was told only a few days ago by a friend just returned from Germany that Germany would not fight. He said that they could not fight because they lacked a large enough army and sufficient equipment."

"I believe Poincare will be eventually overthrown and that a 20th century Napoleon will arise in the world to launch France upon another imperialistic career. America eventually will be forced to step in and adjust world affairs. To do that she will need the support of every citizen of the United States. America must recognize her duty and do it, not alone but with the aid of the whole world."

Mr. Price said he found general conditions everywhere in the south exceptionally good and that the people were more optimistic and accordingly business was moving smoothly.

Asked his opinion on the suggested bonus rider to the acceptance of the English war debt settlement plan by congress, Mr. Price declared he was in favor of a little economy now, and not in spending more of the country's money. The same thing goes for the ship subsidy too, he declared. "Let's stop trying to get something for nothing and go to work. That will solve our financial, economical and political troubles. Good, hard work and plenty of it."

Turkeys, hogs and chickens were fattened on acorns from the oak groves along the lower California river last fall.

"THE BRICK BAT" HURLED AT MEIGS BY EDITOR DAVIS

Thomasville, Ga., February 7.—(Special).—The Brickbat is the name of a new paper that is being published in Meigs, and that has taken the place of The Meigs Herald. This paper is edited by Roy Davis, with D. H. Walton, formerly of The Herald, as publisher.

Mr. Davis is well known in this section for his speeches and work as an exponent of the principles of the Ku Klux Klan, having spoken in Thomasville several times explaining the ideas of the Klan.

The paper is a weekly, and with the first issue the editor stated that he will write whatever he thinks, but will stand for true Americanism. He invites communications from all Klans in the county.

HARDING PRESENTS DEBT AGREEMENT

ment of the English-speaking world to the validity of contract; it is in effect a pledge against war and expenditures, and a rigid adherence to that reduction and retrenchment which enhances stability, precisely as it discharges obligations.

Alluding indirectly to proposals to attach to the congressional act of approval a soldiers' bonus bill, the president reminded congress that the war-time authorization for the loans contained in itself a stipulation that it should be applied to the retirement of liberty bonds and other government securities.

As a part of his statement on the debt negotiations, the executive read a report from the American commission headed by Secretary Mellon, describing the settlement as "fair and just to both governments," and predicting that it would "make a most important contribution to international stability."

Mr. Harding's appeal for action on the ship bill was prompted, he said, by suggestions that its opponents were seeking to prevent a roll call at the end of the session.

Raps Prolonged Debate.

"More avoidance by prolonged debate," he declared, "is a mark of impotence on a vitally important public question. It is a plea for a decision. If there is a favorable majority, the bill should be enacted. If a majority is opposed, defeat will be decisive."

Then, if congress fails in providing the requested alternative measure, the executive branch of the government may proceed as best it can to the liquidation and humiliation.

Immediately after President Harding had addressed congress today a roll call to amend the debt law to provide for acceptance of the British settlement and for settlements with other debtor nations on similar terms was introduced by Senator Snoot, republican, Utah, a member of the debt commission. Senator Snoot said the house probably would act first on the legislation and that it was brought before the senate immediately after the house passes the bill, and ahead of the shipping bill.

Text of Harding's Address

The full text of President Harding's address follows:

To the Congress:

You have been asked to assemble in joint session in order that I may submit to you the report of the world war foreign debt commission covering its accepted proposal for the funding of the debt due to the United States from the government of Great Britain. This report, concluded on February 3, 1923, reads as follows:

The President:

"The world war foreign debt commission created under the act of congress approved February 9, 1922, having received the mission appointed by the British government to consider the funding of the demand obligations of that government held by the United States, reports as follows:

Makes Recommendations.

"The British government, as represented by its representatives the Right Hon. Stanley Baldwin, chancellor of the exchequer, and Mr. Montagu Norman, the governor of the Bank of England, who have conferred with the commission in Washington and presented a report relating to the position of the British government. The commission has also met frequently in separate sessions and has given the fullest consideration to the problems involved in the funding of the British debt to the United States. It became manifest at the outset that it would not be possible to effect an agreement for funding within the limits of the act approved February 9, 1922, and the commission has, therefore, considered the practicality of a settlement on some other basis, and though it has not been able in the absence of authority under the law, to conclude negotiations, it unanimously recommends that congress a settlement with the British government, as follows:

Payment Stipulations.

"Principal of notes to be refunded, $4,074,848,358.44.

"Interest accrued and unpaid up to December 15, 1922, at the rate of 4-1-4 per cent, $929,536,103.99.

"Deduct payments made October 16, 1922, and November 15, 1922, with interest at 4-1-4 per cent thereon to December 15, 1922, $100,529,879.73.

"Total, $4,904,128,085.74.

"To be paid in cash, $4,128,085.74.

"Total principal of indebtedness as of December 15, 1922, for which British government bonds are to be issued to the United States government at par, $4,904,128,085.74.

"The principal of the bonds shall be paid in annual installments on a fixed schedule, subject to the right of the British government to make these payments in three-year periods. The amount of the first year's installment will be $23,000,000 and these annual installments will increase with due regularity during the life of the bonds until, in the sixty-second year, the amount of the installment will be $175,000,000. The aggregate of installments being equal to the total principal of the debt.

"The British government shall have the right to pay off additional amounts of the principal of the bonds on any interest date upon 90 days' previous notice.

Interest Rates.

"Interest is to be payable upon the paid balances at the following rates on December 15 and June 15 of each year: 3 per cent, semi-annually, June 15, 1923, to December 15, 1932, inclusive; 3-1-2 per cent semi-annually, June 15, 1933, until final payment.

"For the first five years one-half the interest may be deferred and added to the principal, bonds to be issued thereafter similar to those of the original issue.

"Any payment of interest or of principal may be made in any United States government bonds issued since April 6, 1917, such bonds to be taken at par and accrued interest.

"The commission believes that a settlement of the British debt to the United States on this basis is fair and just to both governments, and that its prompt adoption will make a most important contribution to international stability. The extension of payment both of the principal and interest over a long period will make for stability in exchange and promotion of commerce between the two countries. The payment of principal has been established on a basis of positive installments of increasing volume, firmly establishing the principle of repayment of the entire capital sum. The payment of interest has been established at the approximately normal rates payable by strong governments over long terms of years.

"It has not been the thought of the commission that it would be just to demand over a long period the high rate of interest naturally maintained during the war and reconstruction, and that such an attempt would defeat our efforts at settlement.

To Encourage Recuperation.

"Beyond this the commission has felt that the present difficulties of unemployment and high taxation in the United Kingdom should be met with suitable consideration during the early years, and therefore, the commission considers it equitable and desirable that payments during the next few years should be made on such basis and with such flexibility as will encourage economic recuperation not only in the countries immediately concerned but throughout the world.

"This settlement between the British government and the United States has the utmost significance. It is a business settlement fully preserving the integrity of the obligations, and it represents the first great step in the readjustment of the inter-governmental obligations growing out of the war.

"Respectfully submitted,

A. W. Mellon, Chairman.

Charles E. Hughes.

Herbert Hoover.

Reed Smoot.

Theodore E. Burton.

Cites Settling.

In its comments upon the arrangement negotiated the commission itself has said essentially everything necessary to commend the agreement to your sanction. Note that the commission urges that the settlement is on a basis which is fair and just to both governments, and that it is a most important contribution to international stability. More important still is the closing observation that "it is a business settlement, fully preserving the integrity of the obligations, and it represents the first great step in the readjustment of the inter-governmental obligations growing out of the war." In these observations I most heartily approve.

The call of the world today for integrity of agreements, the sanctity of covenant, the validity of contracts, here is the first clearing of the war-clouds, skies in a debt-burdened world, and the sincere commitment of one great nation to validate its financial pledges and discharge its obligations in the highest sense of financial honor.

There is purpose to report that your commission has driven a hard bargain with Great Britain, or to do a less generous thing in proclaiming a rare generosity in settlement. Amid widespread clamor for a repeat of the war-time debt, as a fancied but fallacious contribution toward peace—a clamor not limited to the United States but to nations among many of our own people—the British commission came to make acknowledgement of the debt, to put the matter upon a basis of equality and validity and agree upon terms for its repayment.

Speaks of "Fair Play."

It was manifest from the beginning that Great Britain could not undertake any program of payment which would conform to the limitations of time and interest rates which the commission had been authorized to grant. But here was a great nation acknowledging its obligations and seeking terms in which it might repay. So your commission proceeded to negotiate in a business way for a fair and just settlement. Such a settlement is the only one which can be expected to bring about a permanent and lasting peace.

It is not surprising that the commission's report is so well received. It is a report which is a fair and just settlement. It is a report which is a fair and just settlement. It is a report which is a fair and just settlement.

CENTRAL AMERICAN PEACE PACT SIGNED

Hughes Reiterates Friendship of United States at Pan-American Meet.

Washington, February 7.—A treaty of peace and amity, eleven conventions and three protocols were signed today at the final plenary session of the Central American conference in the hall of the American Union, Secretary of State Hughes presided and, in summing up the results of the conference, which assembled December 4 at the invitation of President Harding, congratulated the plenipotentiaries of Guatemala, El Salvador, Honduras, Nicaragua and Costa Rica on the success of the negotiations and reiterated the friendship of the United States for those nations.

vidence that the agreements reached would bring the desired results and voiced gratitude to the American government for its efforts and hospitality.

U. S. to Be Arbitrator.
After the formal signing of the treaty, conventions and protocols, Secretary Hughes announced the decision of Guatemala and Honduras to submit their boundary dispute to President Harding for arbitration. This decision was described by Senator La Follette as "the first practical result of the conference." Dr. Ucles expressed gratification over the agreement for arbitration of the dispute with Guatemala.

Costa Rica refrained from signing the convention establishing with certainty the trade between the signatory powers.
The American delegation joined the other five in signing only one of the conventions, the one relating to the plenipotentiaries of the United States with the plenipotentiaries of Guatemala, El Salvador, Honduras, Nicaragua and Costa Rica on the success of the negotiations and reiterated the friendship of the United States for those nations.

The heads of the five delegations, Senor Don Francisco Sanchez Latour, of Guatemala; Senor Dr. Don Francisco Martinez Suarez, of El Salvador; Senor Dr. Don Alberto Ucles, of Honduras; Senor General Don Emiliano Channora, of Nicaragua; and Senor Licenciado do Alfredo Gonzales Flores, of Costa Rica—expressed confidence that the agreements reached would bring the desired results and voiced gratitude to the American government for its efforts and hospitality.

The protocols not participated in by the United States fixed the Spanish text of the agreements as the only authoritative text and declared that pleadings of the international Central American tribunal set up by the convention of 1907, which had been effected only directly, without recourse to the international office, also established.

Similar to 1907 Pact.
The treaty of peace and amity signed by the five powers contains the provisions of the similar treaty negotiated here in 1907, which have been found of practical value in the maintenance of friendly relations between the participating governments and additional provisions designed to promote such aims.

The convention establishing an international tribunal is designed to provide means for settling all controversies between the Central American republics which do not affect the sovereign and independent existence of the nations and have not been found amenable to settlement through diplomatic channels or by other pacific means.
This convention is designed as a substitute for the convention of 1907 which established the Central American court of justice.
The convention for the limitation of armaments fixes the strength of the armies of Guatemala at 5,200 men; El Salvador at 4,200; Honduras and Nicaragua at 2,500 each, and Costa Rica at 2,000, on a basis of arms and populations, modified by special conditions. The limitation is to continue in force five years. The republics agree to acquire no warships to limit the number of aircraft that may be used in time of war to 10, and to prohibit the exportation of arms or munitions or any other kind of military stores from one republic to another. The powers also bind themselves to establish national guards organized in accordance with the most modern methods and for this purpose will consider the employment of foreign officers as instructors.

Inquiry Body Planned.
The convention for establishment of international commissions of inquiry, which the United States delegation joined in signing, is in general effect a unification of conventions which this government concluded with the five other powers in 1913 and 1914. Its purpose is to make possible whenever two or more of the signatories fail to adjust by pacific means, controversies affecting neither their sovereign nor independent existence, honor or vital interests, for them to submit their problems to a commission of inquiry with the view of facilitating settlement of the dispute. The reports of commissions of inquiry, however, are not given the force of judicial decisions or arbitral awards, but they will fix the status in which the parties to the controversy must remain pending issuance of their reports.

St. Petersburg, Fla., February 7.—(Special.)—A. L. Norris, candy manufacturer, and J. J. West, of the West lumber company, both of Atlanta, today visited the St. Petersburg and Tampa causeways of the Gandy bridge now under construction for six miles across Tampa bay, and which when completed January 1, 1924, will connect Tampa and St. Petersburg with a 19-mile route as compared with the present routes of 57 by automobile, 55 by rail, and 22 by steamer.
"The Gandy toll bridge, which is the largest bridge of its kind in the world," Mr. Norris said, "is the greatest thing in the country today. I should prove a veritable gold mine when it is opened for traffic. It will revolutionize the entire west coast of Florida and the growth of St. Petersburg and Tampa will be phenomenal as a result. I was very much impressed with the construction work on the bridge. It was an interesting sight to see them building a bridge across a six-mile bay."

Mr. Norris said he had just received word from Atlanta that the business of his company during the month of January had increased 25 per cent over the corresponding month last year.

ALLEGED NEGRO RIOT CONSPIRATOR JAILED FOR LIFE

Vienna, Ga., February 7.—Causery Chapman, negro, was convicted by a jury here today of a charge of conspiracy to kill Dooly county officers. He was sentenced by Judge Richard Eve to serve a life term in the penitentiary.

Chapman is a son of Fate Chapman, at whose home near Bryonville, Ga., in May, 1921, riots occurred in which one white man and one negro were killed and others wounded.

Six other negroes held in connection with the riots will be placed on trial Monday.

Lamar Hog Sale.
Barnesville, Ga., February 7.—(Special.)—County Agent C. G. Neal has announced February 14 as the date for the first hog sale for Lamar county for 1922. He has already listed for the farmers nearly two carloads of hogs for that day and expects to have another sale in a short time thereafter. The hogs to compose the first offering are said to be in first-class condition and will probably grade Number 1.

Herrick Denies He Called Himself 'Spark Plug Lover'

Solon Gets "Peeved" and Introduces Measure to Run Certain Newspaper-Men From Press Galleries.

Washington, D. C., February 7.—(By Constitution Leased Wire.)—Congressman Manuel Herrick, of Oklahoma, who has received national prominence through his dare-devil airplane exploits and beauty contests, has come into the limelight again this week, with published reports featuring him in another "shattered romance."

Local newspapers carrying stories to the effect that the flying congressman had been "killed by his most recent love," so greatly raised Mr. Herrick's ire that he today introduced a resolution in the house to debar certain newspaper correspondents from the press galleries, at the same time taking occasion to deny reports that he had called himself a "spark plug lover."

Congressman Herrick was represented as describing himself the "spark plug lover" in connection with another romance that crashed to earth after he had forsaken his airplane to take a flight on the wings of love when his offer of marriage to a young Washington woman was rejected.

The "Villain" Enters.
As the published story goes, leading up to today's resolution, the flying congressman who suffered his airplane wrecked near Memphis several months ago and who was more recently mistaken in Wilmington, N. C., for the draft evader Grover Cleveland Bergdoll, has been paying his attentions to local beauty. He had been allowed to call four nights a week, but week-ends had been reserved for a rival. His pleadings failing to reveal the identity of the rival, services of a local detective agency were procured, with the result that he learned, in his purported words, "that a country feller" was beating his time. This caused a show-down and subsequent rejection.

The "Hero" Vanquished.
Further reports have it that "un-

Fields, of Bainbridge, and is survived by his widow and two little sons, Edwin and Fields Varner.

The tragedy in no way can be accounted for and is greatly deplored here. The body will reach Bainbridge Thursday afternoon and will be interred in Oak City cemetery. Exact plans have not been made.

J. H. NUNNALLY SUED FOR AUTO ACCIDENT

Miami, Fla., February 7.—Samuel E. Carver and his wife, Mary E. Carver, of this city, today brought a $10,000 damage suit against J. H. Nunnally, the Atlanta candy manufacturer, claiming damages for an automobile crash in the exclusive Brickell avenue residence section Monday night.

It is claimed by plaintiffs that the Nunnally automobile dashed out of a cross-over and struck the Carver car, rendering Mrs. Carver unconscious.

The red aniline dye was first produced in the Italian city, or obtained its name from the city in the country of vivid colors. Money Valueless Abner Squiggins Appeals to Law

But U. S. Marshal Balks Move to Prosecute Georgia Attorney-General.

Boston, Mass., February 7.—(Special.)—Regardless of the complaint made by Abner L. Squiggins, of North Worthington, and the ruling of Massachusetts authorities on the United States law, United States Marshal Colonel William H. Kerville, has refused to prosecute Attorney-General George Napier, of Georgia, for passing the money of the one-time Confederate States of America. Squiggins sent a Confederate bond to "Jefferson Davis, President of the Confederate States of America." It fell into the hands of the attorney-general of Georgia who sent Squiggins $800 in Confederate bills in payment of the note.

Squiggins complained to the United States district attorney's office, and the local authorities, holding that complainant's claim of passing worthless money was correct, considered prosecuting the case. The United States marshal's office immediately announced, however, that the attorney-general was immune from prosecution for sending the $800 in bills through the United States mails.

"There was no criminal intent or act and this department will not have anything whatever to do with the case," says the marshal's office.

GREAT FIRE LOSS IN U. S. SCORED

Franklin Wentworth Tells Cleaners That "Impoverishment of the People" Will Be Result.

Fire prevention and further discussion of educational problems confronting the cleaning and dyeing industry were principal subjects at Wednesday afternoon's session of the National Association of Dyers and Cleaners, who are holding their sixteenth annual convention on the roof garden of the Ansley.

Franklin H. Wentworth, secretary of the National Fire Protection association; Charles H. Fischer, fire prevention engineer of New York city, and H. E. Newell, of the National Board of Fire Underwriters, were the chief speakers at the afternoon session. Report of the legislative committee was read by P. C. Clifton.

An eloquent appeal to the delegates to use their influence in bringing about legislation which would decrease the $500,000,000 annual fire loss in America and Canada was voiced by Mr. Wentworth, who declared it to be an "impoverishment that is useless and senseless."

Means Impoverishment. "The profligate loss of such an enormous sum every year in the value of the work of men's hands means the inevitable impoverishment of the people," he said, "and the people feel it without being aware of it. Their awakening is retarded by the thought that the insurance companies pay this colossal tax. But how can they remain solvent? They are merely collectors and distributors of the tax you pay which is represented by policies."

"Every man, woman and child in America pays $3 a year for fire waste," he continued, "which means that the average family pays $30 anually as a result of extravagant thoughtlessness on the part of the people. He stated that one of the surest methods of preventing fires was that the law should make it incumbent upon any person whose building was destroyed to prove that all precautions against fire had been taken. Automatic sprinkler systems, steel window frames, and wired window glass, with only brick and stone buildings, are the most logical and capable fireproofs to use, he believes.

Insurance for Cleaners. Fire insurance as it relates to the dry cleaning industry was discussed by Mr. Fischer who declared that the dry cleaners were all ruled practically alike by the insurance companies whether they had modern equipment installed or not.

"Fire insurance companies assume the attitude that a dry cleaner is just a dry cleaner whether his methods involve the use of open vessels or old antiquated machinery or modern machinery with all known protective features," he said. "Because they use inflammable liquids they pay the same high rate."

A more extensive investigation by the insurance companies and the employment of experts who are familiar with all phases of the insurance business to defend the cleaners' interests, were recommended by Mr. Fischer as being the best methods to bring down high insurance rates. He declared that when a man purchases his insurance without expert guidance he receives a contract drawn by the company at whatever price it may choose to fix.

Address by Newell. Mr. Newell, in his address, gave a history of several important fires among dry cleaning establishments in the United States, and stated that the chief causes were static electricity, explosions, and pressing irons. The indirect cause, however, is mainly from inflammable substances such as gasoline, benzol and naphtha, which he says, caused 80 per cent of fires in dry cleaning plants.

In the legislative report which was read by Mr. Clifton it was brought out that the association would urge the appropriation of $75,000 by the legislature in Oklahoma to aid in the maintenance of a vocational school for dyers and cleaners in that state.

He predicts that in a short while night schools will offer such courses in leading cities in the United States and recommends that influence of the members be exerted in that direction. Educational lectures on technical methods of the industry were the features of the morning session. Those who spoke at this time were: N. M. Drees, Nelson Frank, Alfred H. Hopkins, Roy Deany, C. C. Hubbard, A. W. Conti and George A. Caskey. Detroit and New York are both "pulling" for the 1924 convention. Decision will be made Friday.

THESEPIANS GRIEVED Self-Styled Stage Magnate in Toils of Law.

Macon, Ga., February 7.—(Special.)—Several would-be stage stars and their hopes rudely dashed to the ground today when their supposed "angel" was taken into custody by city detectives and lodged in the bar racks, awaiting the arrival of an officer from Brunswick, where he is wanted for passing worthless checks.

An advertisement signed by "Mr. Fleming, room 306 'Terminal hotel'" appeared in local newspapers today, calling for young men and women desirous of securing positions on the stage. More than a score of young boys and girls called at the hotel during the day, but city detectives obtained an audience with "Mr. Fleming" first and escorted him away.

Fleming is known to the police as F. M. Alexander.

Daughter Freed And Father Given Lecture by Judge

Will Glenn Forbidden to Whip Girl or to Drink Liquors.

Father and daughter were arrayed against each other in police court Wednesday afternoon, the father being placed on probation for a term of 12 months, while the case against the daughter was dismissed.

Under the terms of the probation, the father cannot attempt to whip his 18-year-old daughter, nor will he be permitted to partake of intoxicating liquors and he was cautioned by Recorder George E. Johnson that failure to keep faith with the court, would result in his being sent to the city stocks for 30 days.

The father, Will Glenn, 49, of 73 Tennille street, and the 18-year-old daughter, Miss Mabel Glenn, were brought to the station house Wednesday morning by Call Officers Odus Howell and John D. Woods, who were summoned by neighbors when they became alarmed by screams from the daughter.

The daughter claimed that her father resented attentions she received from young men and would not permit them to call on her. She also stated that her father and his mother would get drunk and while in a state of intoxication they would nag and beat her.

Investigation by Probation Officer John Hollingsworth bore out the contentions of the daughter. He announced to the court, and Judge Johnson, after severely lecturing the father, finally placed him on probation for 12 months when informed that he didn't have the money to pay a fine.

"The influence of the home is so far reaching that similar institutions are being established in all sections of the United States and will be within reach of all crippled children in America," he said, "for the eyes of the world were not on crippled children until the first home was established here in Atlanta."

He praised the Masonic club for its support of the Atlanta Children's Home and declared that as long as they serve Masonry in this manner they are serving humanity and God. ALCOHOL VENDERS WARNED AGAINST ILLEGAL SIGNS

Venders of "radiator" alcohol must make their signs read "denatured" or "completely denatured" or face prosecution in the federal courts, J. J. Rose, collector of internal revenue, stated Wednesday.

The display of signs reading "Alcohol—58 cents a gallon," prompted the federal authorities to issue the ultimatum. They say the dealers in not specifying "denatured" alcohol violate sundry provisions of the prohibition act.

"There is a popular delusion," Collector Rose stated, "that alcohol is a colored product, and it is not at all improbable that some persons through ignorance might mistake the radiator product for a beverage, and suffer dire consequences."

A communication received at the local prohibition headquarters from R. A. Hayes, prohibition commissioner, called attention to the alleged misuse of alcohol signs.

The negro has been in the home for a number of years and officers are of the opinion that he brought the money there with him. The bills were badly dilapidated with age. The negro is being held in the local jail.

Molly looked around with a little shiver.

"It looks spooky," she said.

"It looks like an explanation," answered, sending the canoe forward again.

"Of what?"

"Of the passage."

Molly was wide-eyed as she turned from me and again examined the end of the narrow, rocky water.

"You mean—"

"That I believe Jane played a trick on me," I finished for her.

THE GUMPS—I'M GOING AWAY FROM HERE

Her face was flushed, and I placed my hand on her forehead, which I found to be burning.

"Is there a pain in your side where you put your hand?" I asked.

She nodded, and compressed her lips, and then another fit of coughing racked her.

I got the blankets out of the canoe quickly, made a temporary couch for her, and began pitching a hasty camp.

My heart was heavy and anxious. The symptoms of the left lung me no room for doubt.

Molly had pneumonia.

CHAPTER IX.

Once I had nursed a fellow camper through an attack of pneumonia, a few years before, and I had seen it in a mining camp, where there was no physician to be had, I had seen men recover from it, and some die.

But never had I been entrusted with the sole responsibility for a sufferer who was hopelessly cut off from medical aid, and who would have to make the fight with no other reliance than the weapons of nature.

There was not even a comfort or a luxury I could offer Molly. We were a hundred miles from the nearest outpost of civilization. Her life was in the hands of her Creator.

The first thing I did was to fix a place for her. I wanted her to have all the air she could breathe; the weather seemed to have settled fair, and there was no need to shut her within the walls of a tent. So I took her tent and mine and made a sort of canopy of the winds, and then I laid a deep pile of balsam boughs under it, so she could rest as easily as the rough facilities of the woods would permit.

As soon as I had settled her as comfortable as the conditions would permit, I started a fire, mixed a batch of dough, got out the frying pan, and began making a quantity of soggy flapjacks.

I had picked up the trick from a guide who was a sort of backwoods doctor, and had utilized it once with success. In the absence of other appliances, the hot cakes are applied to the patient's side, over the spot where the pain thrusts like a knife. Also, I heated flat stones in the fireplace, I had hastily constructed, wrapped them in our sweaters, and made them do service as water-bottles.

I tried not to show any anxiety in the presence of Molly, who thanked me with her eyes more than with her lips for everything I sought to do for her, but in my heart I was frightened.

She was very ill. Her struggle to keep up the pace at which I had been driving her during the last few days had plainly weakened her; she was not at her best to combat a disease that attacks swiftly and mercilessly.

Our situation was not one calculated to inspire either hope or confidence. No travelers would come through this lonely track in the wild, and there was absolutely no method by which I could summon help for her. A hundred miles away were doctors' aid; it is a saying around the Deep-Water that every third man you meet in the woods is a physician. But they were as remote from us as if they had been beyond the great sea. It was out of the question to move the girl.

As I sat watching her came a realization that somehow Molly, unknown to myself, had become a part of all my thoughts and plans; she had taken a place in my life as naturally and quietly as if the arrangement had been ordained long before. Everything I did or contemplated took into consideration the relation of Molly to it. Her existence had become a part of mine before I was aware of it.

To the next point in my discovery of unsuspected desires I was carried swiftly by a simple incident. She indicated that she was thirsty again, and I brought her a cup of water, raising her by passing my arm under her shoulders, so that she might drink. She swallowed a little, and then her head fell wearily back against my breast. Her eyes looked up at me slowly, her lips smiled faintly, and she murmured something in which I caught my name. I did not understand. Her burning hand groped for mine and held it as I placed her back among the blankets.

And then, just as plainly and calmly as though I had known it for days, I realized that I loved Molly Hope. It was the explanation of all the rest. And as she lay there fighting for breath, I seemed stricken with the same pain that had stricken her; her suffering was now my suffering.

Hour by hour I listened to her untiring phrases. She was talking of her mother and her home; she was speaking to her brother, Frank; she was writing a letter to her father. Jane had not come. She laughed and chatted with some girls whose name I could not learn; they were going to the theater; they were going to drive; they were talking about dresses. Jane still had not come. Then she was a little girl again, going to school, and I breathed a sigh of comfort, for Jane was very remote now.

TEAM '05 GREATER THAN EVER MANAGED BY JOHN MCGRAW

Bresnahan Best Catcher, Says "Little Napoleon;" Reception Given Giants

Bresnahan Could Play Any Position on Team In Jam-up Style and Was One of Best Thinkers of the Game's History.

BY JOHN J. MCGRAW.

I regard the Giants of 1905 as the greatest ball club that I have managed. I look upon it as one of the greatest ball teams of the last 30 years. As I have said before, the Baltimore Orioles of 1894-95-96, in my opinion, made up the greatest ball team of my knowledge. The 1905 Giants, though, were the best that I ever have managed.

I say this, too, in due regard for the fact that I have handled other clubs that were greater hitters and greater base runners. I hand the laurels to the 1905 team for its smartness. We did not have a really slow thinking ball player on the club. That team was not so fast, but what it lacked in speed of feet it made up in speed of thought. In addition we had two of the greatest pitchers that the game has ever seen—Mathewson and McGinnity. We had two of the great catchers—Bresnahan and Ewing. To my way of thinking, Bresnahan was about the best catcher of all times. The only other catcher that I would rank alongside him is Buck Ewing.

I have had fans, baseball writers and even players look surprised when I made this statement about Bresnahan. But I would ask you something: Did you ever know of another catcher who was a smart enough hitter and base runner to lead the batting order? Did you ever know of another catcher who in addition to his backstop work could hit over 300 and steal 45 bases in a season?

I don't think you have. All of these things must be taken into consideration when selecting the best catchers of all times. His value to a team is what counts. I could name a dozen catchers who worked like a machine, who were good hitters and who had great arms. A majority of them, though, were slow thinkers.

MORE VALUABLE THAN KING

Bresnahan, you see, had all of those qualities combined. Johnny King, for instance, was one of the greatest of all catchers, but I never regarded him as valuable to a ball club as Bresnahan. He could not hit as well as Roger and there were other things that he could not do as well. Nobody, though, could throw better than King.

Roger had played every position—pitcher, outfielder, fielder, catcher. He was good at all, too.

Bresnahan had a memory almost as good as that of Mathewson and McGinnity. He never forgot a play. Once we had discovered weak spots in the opposition and had discussed a plan for attacking it I could depend absolutely on Bresnahan to carry it out. He did not forget. His whole mind was concentrated on winning that particular game and it was rare that he overlooked anything.

It is not at all uncommon for me to have catchers—men of perfect mechanical ability—who do not remember instructions from the bench to the plate. For that reason I have had to take it upon myself to give all the signals for the pitching.

Not only was that 1905 team a smart-thinking ball club but it was a team of fighters. They fought the best and they were sure to win. They could beat anybody and they generally could. As a result of this fighting instinct we got into much trouble. It was seldom that we ever lost a game. Pittsburgh without having some kind of a run-in with the fans. I suppose we did antagonize them too much, but it certainly was a lot of fun. There were hot things any time the Giants arrived. We were roundly hated. Even the newspapers who once had patronized the team came in for a share of roasting.

In those days it was not at all unusual for the papers and authors to "roast" the "rowdy Giants," accompanied by representatives of the yellow press, got in town this morning.

ONE AFTERNOON, AFTER A HOT GAME WITH THE PIRATES, THE FANS STARTED AFTER US WHILE WE WERE GETTING IN OUR CARRIAGES. UNEXPECTEDLY, THE HOTEL THEN—NOT AT THE BALL PARK. OF COURSE, WE WERE NOT ALTOGETHER BLAMELESS. IF THE FANS STARTED RAZING US WE WOULD RAZE RIGHT BACK AT THEM. I TELL THE TRUTH WE STARTED DELIGHTED IN TANTALIZING THE OVERHEATED ROOSTERS.

ON THIS PARTICULAR DAY, WE HAD DODGED HANDFULS OF GRAVEL, LOOSE PIECES OF BRICK, AND SO ON, ALL THE WAY TO THE BRIDGE. JUST AS WE CROSSED ON THE OTHER SIDE ONE OF THE PIRATES MEN STARTED RAZING US. WE CAME BACK AT HIM STRONG. IN ANOTHER MINUTE WE WERE GREETED WITH A SHOWER OF OLD VEGETABLES—potatoes, onions, tomatoes and even cantaloupes.

McGinnity, always a quiet sort of fellow, arose in his carriage to get out and quiet things down. He was just about to tell the other players to keep quiet when he lurched forward. As if in concert four big fellows from the crowd, who were in the front of the line, came forward and began to throw things at him. He was one of the most laughable sights I have seen. The strain stayed there, until we got back off the trip.

SAMMY STRONG, IN ANOTHER CARRIAGE, WAS HIT BY THE HEAD OF THE HEAD WITH AN OVERRIPE CANTALOUPE. WHEN WE FINALLY ESCAPED AND REACHED OUR CARRIAGE WE HAD THOUGHT THAT WE HAD BEEN HAULING GARbage. THAT'S A THING THAT HAPPENED FREQUENTLY.

INSTEAD OF CUTTING US, THOUGH, IT MADE THE PLAYERS MORE EAGER TO FIGHT AND TO WIN. THEY LOVED TO LICK THE PIRATES—OUR MAIN RIVALS—AND THEN DRIVE BY THE MARKET.

IN ONE OF THE MINOR LEAGUE CITIES, VISITED IN THE SPRING, WE WERE DRIVEN FROM THE GROUNDS IN A BIG OMBUS. WE PASSED A RESIDENCE AND NOTICED A SIGN ON THE WINDOW, "DR. MCNUTT."

"Hello, Doc, how are you?" "Where's the old Doc?" they asked of an old woman who was watering the lawn with a hose.

IN A MOMENT THE DOCTOR, FEELING HIMSELF A LITTLE BIT HONORED, CAME TO THE DOOR.

"Say, Doc," some fresh young fellow called out, "where do you bury your patients?"

WITH THAT THE OLD WOMAN ON THE LAWN THOROUGHLY INDIGNANT, TURNED AND LEVELLED THE HOSE ON THE BUS AND LET US HAVE THE FULL STREAM. IT WAS SOME STREAM, TOO. WE SCRAMBLED TO THE FLOOR, ORDERING THE MAN TO DRIVE FAST. BEFORE WE COULD GET OUT OF RANGE, THOUGH, HE GOT UP AND RAN AFTER US. I KNOW I GOT ONE SHOT FROM THE HOSE SQUARELY IN THE CHEST. McGINNITY, SITTING OPPOSITE ME, HAD DROCKED JUST IN TIME.

THAT WHOLE CLUB HAD THE SPIRIT OF SKY-LARKING COLLEGE BOYS AND I WAS JUST AS BAD AS ANY OF THEM. ON THE FIELD, THOUGH, THEY THOUGHT LIKE ME. THEY WERE ALWAYS THERE TO HELP ME IN MY AFFAIRS. ALWAYS THEY WERE ON A HAIR-EDGE READY TO GET INTO A ROW IF ANYBODY PULLED THE TRIGGER.

THE MORE I THINK OF IT THE MORE I REALIZE WHAT A PICTURESQUE BALL CLUB THAT WAS. TO PROTEST GAMES AND MAKE NUMEROUS AFFIDAVITS WAS A COMMON THING. AT TIMES WE EVEN FIGURED IN INJUNCTION CASES IN THE COURTS. I GUESS FANS OF THIS DAY STILL REMEMBER THE "HEY, BARNEY" INCIDENT WHICH WOUND UP IN A TRIAL AT EUSTON.

"I'll have to tell about that in a later chapter." (Copyright, 1923, P. S. and Canada, by Christy Walsh Syndicate.)

Pitcher Bush Returns. Brainerd, Minn., February 7.—"Bull" Joe Bush, Yankee pitcher, and his wife, returned to their home here at midnight last night from their trip to the Far East with the American all-star baseball team. Bush will remain here until the end of the month before joining the Yankees on their spring training trip.

Florida City Gets Spring Camp of the Crackers. Training Will Probably Start March 12.

BY CLIFF WHEATLEY. The Crackers will train at Palatka, Fla., this spring.

Jack Corbett, president of the Atlanta Baseball company, yesterday completed his task of running a pencil over the Peninsula State, marked Palatka with a cross and immediately began issuing instructions to the players to begin practice in the middle of the month. If this is the case, then Atlanta should entertain quite a number of players on March 10, when they will gather at headquarters.

Working on Diamond. Corbett is making every effort to have the diamond at Ponce de Leon ready for the first of the season. The players will be in the city by the middle of the month. Corbett will be unable to complete this work before March 10, a capable superintendent will be left in Atlanta to speed up the activity.

Many improvements have already been made, but others are planned. Much work has been done around the third base, which was one of the hardest spots to field in the circuit last season. Players said the hot corner was lower than most of these men. The names of new players signs will be ready for publication Wednesday. President Corbett could probably have the team in the city by the Atlanta club should be ready to do so. Most of the recruits he employed during the winter were brought from the north of farming out to smaller franchises.

Corbett will not be ready to announce the names of the players expected to put up a good season until a few days before spring training starts. The New York Americans, Atlanta's big league affiliation, are expected to have a good season. They will begin their voyages toward Atlanta by the time the Crackers are ready to take up the training stuff.

Viewing the News. New Orleans fight fans are skeptical, and being that they are critical about the prowess of pugilists that are not owners of names known wherever boxing is. Hence, it is hard for a fighter to break into New Orleans; some say it is a feat more difficult to achieve than drawing an assignment to appear in Madison Square Garden.

The Crescent City is the recognized fistic center of the south, just as New York is the target aimed at by pugilists from every section of the world. It is regarded as the boy who can deliver the goods in either city. And where scores get the chance there are few that stick.

New Orleans coffers have been closed to Georgia boxers for years. Customers of the game in Louisiana had a pretty well-defined idea that this city was the place to go to see a pugilist capable of pleasing them, and naturally New Orleans promoters looked elsewhere for their attractions.

Young Marullo opened the eyes of fans in New Orleans to the ability of Georgia ring stars, and there is no reason why many should not go to that city. As a drawing attraction in Louisiana the Macon youngster is firmly entrenched, and has already won a four-round guarantee to fight in New Orleans.

BATTING BUDD FIGHTS KING. Battling Budd, Walk Miller's star welterweight, is the la est Georgian to get his chance in New Orleans. Budd has been here for years, and his best welterweights in the south; he has been consistently bowled over New Orleans fighters when they met in OVERLOOK CARD IN TIM O'DOWD. Young Tim O'Dowd, a little bantamweight, has been overlooked by the Crescent City matchmakers, despite the fact that he has soundly defeated every New Orleans boy he has been up against. Ashton Donza, a headliner in New Orleans, is little more than a set-up for Timmy, yet he has been given his chance to go into the city where fighters are paid most for their work.

He has fought the best men of his weight in the south, and has beaten against Babe Asher, A. E. F. champion, O'Dowd looked like a million dollars, scoring five knockdowns in a five-round fight. This writer is positive that New Orleans fans, remembering Pete Herman, would be pleased by O'Dowd.

BOBBY JONES SHOOTS A 68. At home for a few days while fellow students at Harvard are wading through a week of full of examinations as corn licker is of peril, Bobby Jones is finding time to take a part or two over the course at East Lake and seems to be finding the place distinctly to his liking.

For instance, yesterday when the weather man let down the chilly hooks he was shooting over the plate with the cool man doing most of the batting, Bobby and a number of his friends rigged up a foursome and did some good shooting. Bobby getting a 68 and even then his score should have been much better.

The Bowser Clarifilter has become the talk of the Convention. It is a sensation because it produces sensational results.

And Here Is Positive Proof!

Here is what ten progressive, representative dry cleaners have written. Some of them are here—today. You know some of them. Their integrity is above reproach. They have no interest in the success of the Bowser Clarifilter—except as it does their work better, quicker and cheaper. There are no strings to their statements. They are in dead earnest. Ask them.

New Golf Honors Paid To Mrs. Dozier Landes

Mrs. Dozier Landes, one of Atlanta's notable golf players, has entered the national women's championship tournament. Mrs. Landes has recently been elected a member of the executive board of the Western Golf association. As is well known, Mrs. Landes is famous for her long drives and her consistent record in the 80's is a remarkable one. Atlanta is looking to Mrs. Landes to uphold Alex Stirling's record and all prophecies are that a national championship will be added to Atlanta's galaxy of star golfers. Mrs. Lewis Beck, the newly elected president of the Atlanta Women's Golf association, will return to Atlanta Saturday in time for the tournament Monday, February 12, in Ansley Park. Mrs. Landes is chairman of the handicaps committee which is composed of Mrs. Thomas B. Paine and Mrs. Toulman Williams.

Oglethorpe Woman's Board Honored by Mrs. Connerat

The members of the Oglethorpe woman's board met for their annual winter meeting on Wednesday afternoon, when they were entertained by Mrs. Katherine Connerat at her home on East Fourteenth street.

Subscriptions to the Oglethorpe woman's board were announced and nearly $1,500 had been subscribed by members of the board during the year. No dues are paid by the members and the contributions, which are purely voluntary, are devoted to the interests of the university and the students.

Among the special donations announced was the gift of a rug by Mrs. J. M. High for "the girls' room" at the university. The furniture of the room, which has been decorated by the Southern Cotton Oil company, was donated by Mrs. Ernest Otley.

The woman's board will sponsor the presentation of Oglethorpe players in March, according to custom, it was announced.

Mrs. Earl Sherwood Jackson, director for the players, spoke of the plans to be produced, stating that they were unusually original plays written by the students, and that considerable enthusiasm was being shown by the students in the work.

Judge Edgar Watkins, chairman of the executive committee of the board of founders of the university, gave an address to the members of the woman's board.

The musical feature for the occasion was furnished by two members of the board, Mrs. J. H. Whitten and Mrs. R. L. Conner, who rendered a group of song selections. Mrs. Whitten was accompanied by Mrs. Rucker McCarty, and Mrs. Conner by Mrs. Frank Ruyner.

A reception followed the meeting. Assisting Mrs. Connerat in entertaining were Mrs. J. K. Otley, Mrs. Lee Ashcraft, Mrs. Thorne Jacobs, Mrs. S. M. Iman, Mrs. James R. Gray, Sr., Mrs. Albert Thornton, Sr., Mrs. E. P. McBurney, Mrs. George Winslow, Mrs. Newton Wing, Mrs. George Brime, Mrs. I. R. Carlisle, Mrs. Gordon Burnett, Mrs. E. D. Cane, Mrs. J. M. High, Mrs. Omer Elder, Mrs. Chester King, Mrs. De Los Hill, Mrs. E. Rivers, Mrs. Isaac Schoen, Mrs. W. M. Camp, Mrs. James T. Williams, Mrs. L. E. Chale.

Mrs. Block Honors Miss Nan du Bignon.

An interesting event of an informal nature on Wednesday's social calendar was the bridge-tee at which Mrs. Frances Block entertained at her home on Ponce de Leon avenue in honor of Miss Nan du Bignon, who has recently returned from Europe.

The rooms where the guests were received were decorated by pot plants and cut flowers in artistic arrangement. Miss Margaret Block, the attractive sub-deb daughter of the hostess, assisted her mother in entertaining the guests.

The guests included twelve friends of Mrs. Block and Miss du Bignon. The "theatre workshop" idea had every year the students there are doing more and more creative work in the field of drama.

This year there are actually more worthy plays on hand than can be produced. Four dramas have been cast and will be rehearsed. Of these four, three will be chosen for presentation, the choice to depend on how the plays work out in rehearsal as "acting" plays.

The four plays selected are "The Dream Teacher," a comedy by Miss Marie Kellam; "A Prince of Egypt," a play presenting a problem of mountain life (name not yet given) by Miss Gladys Crissler; "A Prince of Egypt," a fantastic drama by Miss Louise McCammon; and "Billing and Couling," a farce by Lawrence Pfeifferkorn.

The casts for the plays have been assigned. "The Dream Teacher," by Miss Kellam, has the following cast: John Carleton, Joe Duckworth, Anne, Miss Mattie White Kellam; Charles, a butler, Tom Bartenfeld; Mary Saunders, the fiancée, Miss Alice Chance; "A Prince of Egypt," by Miss Louise McCammon, has the following cast: John Carleton, Edgar Watkins, Jr., Miss Gladys Crissler, John Britt, Rosalind Chance, Grace, Miss Grace Mason; "Billing and Couling," by Philip Swift, Bob Kilgore.

The cast of "Billing and Couling," by Lawrence Pfeifferkorn, is as follows: Van, Bill Morrow; Phil, John Varndoe; Fool, Dan Conking; Hatties, Charles Corlis; Queen Hattiespeet, Miss Dorothy Foster; a slave, Henry Hope; Thumme, Lawrence Pfeifferkorn; High Priest, Otis Jackson; Thotmer, Sidney Ives; Kita, Miss Lucy Pairo; Amen, Branscomb; slaves, Maryann Tucker, Pat Crenshaw, James Mathis, Wendell Crowe, Jerigan; fan bearers, Mildred Warlick, Louise McCammon, Elizabeth Ransom and Christine Gore.

The cast of "Billing and Couling," by Lawrence Pfeifferkorn, is as follows: Dr. Du Bois, John Jacobs; Tipton, Fredling, Duke Jordan; Mrs. Freling, Miss Elizabeth Broughton; Marion Du Bois, Miss Priscilla Hunt; Annie, Miss Carol Gifford; Zup, Royal Frazier.

John Jacobs is president of the Oglethorpe Players, who have as their official coach Mrs. Earl Sherwood Jackson, well known in dramatic circles here.

Mr. Chance was author of one of the successes of last year, also a cast of "Billing and Couling," by Lawrence Pfeifferkorn, is as follows: Van, Bill Morrow; Phil, John Varndoe; Fool, Dan Conking; Hatties, Charles Corlis; Queen Hattiespeet, Miss Dorothy Foster; a slave, Henry Hope; Thumme, Lawrence Pfeifferkorn; High Priest, Otis Jackson; Thotmer, Sidney Ives; Kita, Miss Lucy Pairo; Amen, Branscomb; slaves, Maryann Tucker, Pat Crenshaw, James Mathis, Wendell Crowe, Jerigan; fan bearers, Mildred Warlick, Louise McCammon, Elizabeth Ransom and Christine Gore.

An organization of students who are not actors merely but playwrights also, the players of Oglethorpe University are well known to Atlanta for the excellence of their original productions. For three years they have put on original plays and for three years they have played to capacity houses, both at the Atlanta theatre and at the Atlanta woman's club auditorium.

The plays produced here, for the most part, were written by the students in connection with a university course in drama, under the leadership of Dr. James Routh, head of the English department. There have been serious dramas, melodramas, comedies and farces put on by these young men and women of Oglethorpe, who every year show that they can act as well as they can write.

Oglethorpe University is one of the first institutions in the south to succeed with the "theatre workshop" idea and every year the students there are doing more and more creative work in the field of drama.

GLIDERS' CLUB GOES SKATING AND INTRODUCES LATEST SPORT

The newest sport in Atlanta is roller skating. The Gliders' club is composed of twenty young people who skate on the asphalt towards Decatur every Monday night. Here are three of the most ardent devotees of the sport: Mrs. H. B. Ray, Miss Martha Asbury and Miss Jeanne Dreger.

BY MARTHA GOODEN ANDERSON.

Skating is Atlanta's newest sport. When the moon shines bright on a frosty night lately, people along Ponce de Leon avenue, where it begins to be the lovely Druid Hills, have seen alert figures gliding along the smooth asphalt, and have heard gay laughter and merry words float out on the still gliding air and they knew that the Gliders were having their weekly roll. For Atlanta's skating is done on rollers, just as it used to be when "you and I were young, Maggie."

The Gliders' club has been in existence just two weeks—it already has one sprained wrist to its credit, for one of its members fell down and broke it at the very first meeting. The club immediately took all of its money out of the treasury and sent him flowers—and he skated with the other members Monday night, on their weekly excursion—and here's his picture to prove it, even if he has his skates on his arm instead of on his feet.

The skating club is the newest organization formed in the city and is composed of twenty devotees of the sport. Incidentally, the forming of such a club is doubly interesting in the fact that it is only within the last decade that pavements and roads in America are of sufficient smoothness to make it possible to roll on skates from one point to another, as is now done constantly in Europe and has been done there for years. In fact figures on roller skates progressing from one town to another in England and on the continent are familiar sights at every turn to every American tourist. This new club, therefore, pays a distinct compliment to the conditions of Atlanta's asphalt.

For the T. B. M. and T. O. G. "The twenty members of the Gliders' club," said Mrs. Stella T. Townsend, of 202 North Moreland avenue, who is one of the moving spirits in the organization, "decided that skating was one of the best exercises that the tired office man and girl could possibly get, as it enables one to have full swing of the body and worlds of fresh air! It makes one feel young and happy and before long we expect to throw away all rouage and other cosmetics."

"Where do we skate?" "Why right out on the side walk, and down side streets where traffic is not heavy and of course being grownups we don't have to look out for autos and such. We have already been to Decatur. We organized the club two weeks ago when the first meeting was held at the apartment of Mrs. H. D. Ray on Moreland avenue. We voted for a president and Mrs. Ray was elected. She will transact all business until the members increase. Then we will elect a secretary and treasurer, as of course each member is required to pay dues, which go for flowers for the sick."

"By the way, J. B. Asbury received the first bouquet as he sprained his wrist at the very first meeting. He is full of lovely passages and beautiful themes, and were presented in so musically a way that even the uninitiated could enjoy them."

The Schuett suite played by Mr. Lindner and Mr. Kremer, is exceedingly brilliant and interesting, especially the first and last movements. Kremer's reading of the piano part of the first movement was particularly enjoyable and the delicacy of feeling which he showed in the Scherzo was quite effective.

This was Mr. Kremer's first appearance before the Atlanta Music club. It is to be hoped he will appear from one meeting to the next. The Arensky trio, played by Mr. Lindner, Mr. Thompson and Miss Beyer, was interestingly done, especially the second movement. Miss Beyer's clarity of tone and accuracy, coupled with extreme lightness and speed, proved her a real pianist.

Another most interesting program in the morning series of the Atlanta Music club was presented Wednesday morning by a group of Atlanta's artists, George F. The program was composed of two piano and violin numbers, the Schuett suite for violin and piano, and the Arensky trio for violin, cello and piano. These two compositions

Confessions of a Debutante

BY RUTH-AGNES ABERNETHY

INSTALLMENT NO. 22. "WHY MARRY?" "WHO WHO IN THE STORY?" "An erstwhile butterfly, far away from my fiancée, as I told you before, very rich and my mother's choice, to the arms of Larry, a man who dances well."

Mrs. Larry diplomatically shows me Larry's weakness and induces my friend, I return to my home on the eve of my announcement party. Arrived at the party I see Jonathan as lost with another girl beside him. She, however, was a precaution against my failure to appear, as my friend is announced and the party goes on. After a quarrel with Jonathan on the way home, I find two bouquets awaiting me in my room. "One is from whom name I do not know, but whom I visit. Mrs. Larry I tell her about him."

Monday, December 25. I walked home through Central park. It was nearly five o'clock. The roads and walks were crowded with vehicles and pedestrians. I was glad, for there was less chance of some friends picking me up. I wanted to be out in the air alone to think. I needed to think.

Mrs. Larry was such a sane sort, yet, just because she loved Larry, it seemed to me was little worth loving. She had canceled her winter's engagement and intended remaining at home. That she told me on the day of our drive to her country place—which seems years ago now—is why she was in her apartment the night I went there instead of out on the road as Larry expected.

She believed she still had a fighting chance with him. And she meant taking it! Yet her stage work would have meant money ample for her living. That was her judgment of values!

Was mine wrong I wondered? I was tempted to believe that it was! It seemed that with the very thought of that strange dark-eyed youth my pulses quickened, while the thought of Jonathan brought only a chilling constraint.

If I had known where to find him then I think I should have rushed to the arms of My Stranger and begged him to take me, to let me share with him anything the future might bring—good or ill. I wanted him with the same kind of an aching that I used to want candy or toys when I was a little girl. The candy and toys were a simple matter. But My Stranger!

I had to move quietly along the park walk as if my heart was not beating triple time and my senses longing to recall a man I had cast aside! In the living room at home I found mama. She was alone. Tea was being served.

She looked up rather critically as I came in, it seemed to me. "Your wrap is a bit shabby—isn't it?" she said at length and then I understood the appraising look. "And you really have any kinks left?" Silence. Then:

"I'd like to know what else you would marry for?" That from my mother! (Copyright, 1923, for The Constitution.)

Mrs. Lamar Will Deliver Address This Afternoon

Mrs. Walter D. Lamar, of Macon, will deliver the annual Sidney Lamar address before the membership of the Atlanta chapter, U. D. C., at the chapter house, corner of Juniper and Sixth streets.

Mrs. Lamar gives her address entirely without notes and she is one of the most gifted orators in the south. She is past president of the Sidney Lamar chapter, U. D. C., and past president of the Georgia division, U. D. C., and is prominently identified with the general division, U. D. C. As Dorothy Blount, Mrs. Lamar inherited from her distinguished father, United States Congressman Joseph Blount, a brilliant mind and rare facilities for leadership. Although Mrs. Lamar has a wide circle of friends in Atlanta, this will be her first appearance as a lecturer and her coming is being anticipated with much pleasure.

Mrs. Lamar, enthusiastic over Lamar's musical and poetic genius, prepared an address on the eightieth anniversary of Lamar's birth, and it was so splendidly written that it was preserved in book form and is dedicated to the Saturday Morning Music club, of Macon.

It was through Mrs. Lamar's efforts that a notable Lamar program was planned and carried out at Wesleyan chapel February 3, 1921, in celebration of the anniversary of Lamar's birth. Mrs. Lamar's address on that occasion was so splendid that it was felt that it should be preserved in book form and reach a wide audience. The manuscript, after being edited by Mrs. Sidney Lamar and by Professor George Herbert Clark, is being issued in very attractive booklet form by the J. W. Burke company, of this city. It should find a hearty welcome at any time in Macon and Georgia among Lamar lovers everywhere, and it is especially fitting for it to appear just now—when our minds need to be turned not only to the greatest and best life, but also to those who like Lamar have added so greatly to the harmony, poetry and beauty of life.

Mrs. Lamar treats Lamar as musician, poet, soldier—a musician whose music flowed into song, and whose "song was only living aloud," a soldier who hated war and was as brave a soldier of life as the bravest warriors have ever been on the literal firing line. And in addition to her well-told story and a fine estimate of a notable life, Mrs. Lamar's study of Lamar brings together a wealth of material from Lamar's poetry as well as verse in the support of her thesis that Lamar was primarily a musician, although in his poems the two sides of his genius were happily blended that his written word was only spoken music.

Mrs. Benjamin Parker, chairman of music, will present Mrs. Norman Cooledge, who will sing a group of songs, including "The Ballad of the Trees," by Sidney Lamar, this song being appropriate for the Lamar celebration.

At the close of the program an informal reception will be held in honor of Mrs. Lamar and the officers of the club will assist Mrs. Phillips in receiving and entertaining.

The College of Home Science Mountain and Decatur chapters are invited to the meeting and reception.

A meeting of the executive board is called for 2 o'clock, at which time important chapter matters will be discussed. Mrs. Earl Scott will preside over the board meeting in the absence of Mrs. Hal Hunt, chairman.

Mrs. Forrest Kibler, treasurer, requests a prompt payment of 1922 dues.

Mrs. Charles T. Phillips is president of the Atlanta chapter, U. D. C., and will introduce Mrs. Lamar.

Cocoanut Oil Makes A Splendid Shampoo

If you want to keep your hair in good condition, be careful what you wash it with.

Many soaps and prepared shampoos contain too much free alkali. This dries the scalp, makes the hair brittle and is very harmful. Mulisified cocoanut oil shampoo (which is pure and entirely greaseless), is much better than anything else you can use for shampooing as this cannot possibly injure the hair.

Simply put two or three teaspoonfuls of Mulisified cocoanut oil shampoo with a little warm water, then moisten your hair with water and rub the Mulisified in. It will make an abundance of rich, creamy lather, and cleanse the hair and scalp thoroughly. The lather rinses out easily, and removes every particle of dirt, dandruff and excess oil. The hair dries quickly and evenly, and it leaves it fine and silky, bright, fluffy and easy to manage.

You can get Mulisified cocoanut oil shampoo at any drug store. It is very cheap, and a few ounces will last everyone in the family for months. Be sure your druggist gives you Mulisified. (Adv.)

CHAPTER LXVI.

The Sharks.

"There are sharks in there!" The words rang through Cynthia's head. Man-eating sharks—cruel-jawed, eager for their prey. Frightened though she was, her imagination pictured them for her relentlessly.

And all about her stretched the waters of that tropical sea, warm, caressing, murmuring softly in the moonlight. She glanced back over her shoulder at Gysbert. He was running toward her, his arms stretched out to her. She turned and stumbled on a blindly—death, no matter how hideous a form it took, was preferable to the fate that lay behind her.

The thought of Roger came to her; Roger, big, broad-shouldered, dependable. He filled her mind so completely in that moment that it seemed to her almost as if he were there.

"Oh Roger—Roger!" she cried. "Save me! I need you now—take care of me."

Afterward, thinking of that moment, Cynthia could never explain the feeling of Roger's presence which came surging over her. She knew that her husband was far away, yet she felt that he was there with her, and would protect her. The hideous fear that had almost driven her mad was swept away by this new assurance of protection.

She took another stumbling step forward, then paused. As she wavered something touched her ankle—the surface of the water.

"A shark!" was her first thought. With one last, despairing cry of "Roger!" she fainted.

On the shore Gysbert stared at her disbelievingly.

"Little fool!" he muttered as he strode into the water. He picked her up, kicking aside the piece of driftwood that had caused her collapse.

"She should have known that the only sharks that are around these waters are harmless ones, and little at that," he remarked, as he turned toward shore again.

Cynthia lay limply in his arms. She opened her eyes once, then collapsed on the beach when he laid her down and began to chafe her hands.

"You needn't be afraid of me any longer," he told her. "I'm through. I won't bother you again. I see that the mistake was mine, not yours—you really don't care anything about me, and don't want to. I thought you were just pretending. I beg your pardon."

She looked at him without answering. The feeling that Roger had been with her was still strong; somehow, she felt assured of his love, and knew that until she rejoined him life could hold nothing worth having.

"I want to go home," she said, still thinking of Roger. It was the beloved little house in New York that she wanted, with its charming, home-like rooms—her own boudoir and sleeping room, the gay, little breakfast room, Roger's study, where he and she had often sat in the big arm chair together, that they could spend the evening at home instead of at theatres and dance clubs. If only they could have gone happily on as they had!

"Still, I didn't know enough then to appreciate him," she told herself, drifting into memories that quite obliterated Gysbert's presence from her thoughts. "If I had, I wouldn't have minded having the girls there, and we'd never have had any trouble. I didn't know what love really means."

Ends Stubborn Coughs in a Hurry
For real effectiveness, this old home-made remedy has no equal. Easily and cheaply prepared.

You'll never know how quickly a bad cough can be conquered, until you try this famous old home-made remedy. Anyone who has coughed all day and all night, will say that the immediate relief given is almost like magic. It is very easily prepared, and there is nothing better for coughs.

Into a pint bottle, put 2½ ounces of Pinex; then add plain granulated sugar syrup to make a full pint. Or you can use clarified molasses, honey, or corn syrup, instead of sugar syrup. Either way, the full pint saves about two-thirds of the money usually spent for cough preparations, and gives you a more positive, effective remedy. It keeps perfectly, and tastes pleasant—children like it.

You can feel this take hold instantly, soothing and healing the membranes in all the air passages. It promptly loosens a dry, tight cough, and soon you will notice the phlegm thin out and disappear. A day's use will usually break up an ordinary throat or chest cold, and it is also splendid for bronchitis, croup, hoarseness, and bronchial asthma.

Pinex is a most valuable concentrated compound of genuine Norway pine extract, the most reliable remedy for throat and chest ailments.

To avoid disappointment, ask your druggist for "2½ ounces of Pinex" with directions and accept anything else. Guaranteed to give absolute satisfaction or money refunded. The Pinex Co., Ft. Wayne, Ind.

Quick and Easy.

One housewife keeps a supply of bottled cocoa syrup on her pantry shelf and all she has to do is add a large spoonful to a cup of hot milk for the hurried breakfast, saving her time for other preparations. The syrup consists of one cup of cocoa, 1 cup of sugar and a pinch of salt. Add to this a cup of water and boil until it thickens.

Delicious Grapefruit.

A tablespoonful of honey put into each half of the grapefruit after it is prepared for serving, then placed in the refrigerator for a few hours, will impart a most delicious flavor.

Canned Soups.

An attractive addition to many canned soups is to sift a couple of hard-boiled eggs and sprinkle them over the top. This is especially good with mock turtle and oxtail soups.

BAMA GOVERNOR PROMISES REPLY TO W. W. BRANDON

Anniston, Ala., February 7.—(Special.)—Governor Thomas E. Kilby, who returned to his home in Anniston Wednesday after a business trip to New York City, issued a statement immediately after reaching the city to the effect that the state affairs of Alabama were in excellent financial condition when he turned them over to Governor W. W. Brandon on January 15, and indicated that he would have something of interest to say in reply to the governor's message several weeks ago that the state treasury was facing a large deficit instead of enjoying the prosperity expected by the new officials of Governor Kilby's term.

BIG MONEY IN LONG TERM LEASES

We can offer leases running from 25 years to 99 years on some of the finest located properties in Atlanta. Long term ground leases give the man who hasn't sufficient capital to buy expensive downtown properties the opportunity to use the other man's land at a comparatively small cost, and use his own money for building and reap the benefit.

Not only does the holder of such leases receive a big return on his investment but with the continued growth of Atlanta he has the ever present chance of selling his lease at an enormous profit.

You will not lose anything by discussing some of these propositions with us.

'Angel of Siberia' Is Recommended For Nobel Prize

Miss Ella Brandstrom in U. S. to Ask Help in Her Work in Europe.

BY WILL JOHNSON.
New York, February 7.—The "Angel of Siberia" has become an "angel of the world."

Miss Ella Brandstrom, the slender Swedish woman whose soul lit the bleak plains of east Russia for hundreds of thousands of starving German and Austrian war prisoners after 1914, has come to ask American angels for help in her work.

And the world has recognized that work. No sooner had Miss Brandstrom set foot in New York than she was informed she had been recommended for the 1923 noble peace prize of $40,000, awarded for the best international effort against war.

The "angel" was too amazed to comment full on the honor that came to her from the Norwegian parliament.

"I've been recommended, I? How could that be? I've done nothing," she said. "Besides, I'm only 34 years old, and the prize should go to someone who has given a long life toward peace."

And here, briefly, is Miss Brandstrom's record of "nothing doing" as a peace worker.

Has Many Medals.
She is the most decorated woman in the world. She is the only woman who has been decorated with the Order of the Seraphim—the oldest in Sweden.

At the outbreak of the world war she organized, at her own expense, a Red Cross unit that in six years traveled into every village and hamlet of rough, inhospitable Siberia, bringing aid and messages of hope to 2,000,000 captured and discouraged soldiers of the central powers.

Once she was imprisoned for seven months by the Russian government.
